

AEG and The Ritz Carlton counted on Collin Breakstone of Ultimate Control, San Jose to install the entire audiovisual system in their latest project – The Ritz Carlton Residences at LA Live Sales Office. Part of this project involved a touch screen monitor, and for that Collin called on CyberTouch to deliver an interactive display highlighting all of the amenities and offerings of the five-star luxury residences. CyberTouch's solution was an Orion 42" touch screen LCD Monitor.

The luxury residences, starting on the 27th floor and rising up to the 52nd floor, stand boldly as an icon above the bright lights of Los Angeles. The residences will offer breathtaking views, world-class amenities and the legendary services of The Ritz-Carlton hotel.

Below Ritz Carlton Residences sits LA Live, a new, vibrant, world-class entertainment district, envisioned as the "Times Square of the West." Popular clubs, dining, movie theaters, museums, sports and special events at the Staples Center will be mere steps away.

Ultimate Control installed an Orion AV 42", CyberTouch part number O4200U on a wall located off of the main sales office area. According to AEG's John Coyle "We wanted an area for potential clients that is secluded enough to let the client navigate through the different models, options, and amenities that The Residences at LA Live will offer at the client's own pace."

Ultimate Control partnered with MC2 to create the interactive program that runs off of a Mac Computer. The computer is connected to CyberTouch's unit via USB connection.
